Yale and Harvard athletes are said to have walked all over the amateurish rules, but Lo, the poor Indian!

Several days of ideal "sugar weather" last week caused "home made sugar" to make its appearance on the local market.

Governor Sulzer of New York says he is going to go slow but sure. Imagine such a statement from the Sage of Oyster Bay!

Three great events crowded into the short month of February; Ground Hog Day, St. Valentine Day and George Washington's Birthday.

The Michigan man is said to be recovering from the operation where he acquired the brains of a dog. Would you call that operation a howling success?

February is said to be the shortest month in the year, but if it is any shorter for us than December and January were the sheriff will get us if we don't watch out.

The effects of the new parcels post system is being seen around the Lancaster postoffice, the rural carriers resemble old Santa Claus when they start on their morning trips.

The early bird gets the worm, and the candidate who shows the people he is in earnest, tells them what he is for and what he is against, will be the long pole that knocks the persimmon.

Butter is growing to be a scarce article in this community, even the country people who are accustomed to supply the town, are buying butter. The severe weather is the cause.

Thus far this winter there has been no weather suitable to the gathering of natural ice, but what matter, with the completion of the new ice plant the product may be secured of better quality and cheaper than that stored during the wintry weather.

The auto bug is buzzing, and with the advent of Spring quite a number of new automobiles will be seen in Lancaster. Our citizens have never had any trouble in keeping in front of the spot light and they will be second to no town in the number of performers behind the headlight.

The features of inauguration week are looming big, and seeming Wilson and Marshall, will be second in importance to the suffragettes, who will parade in militant array on historic Pennsylvania avenue, the day before the inauguration. Look for Bro. William Walton and you will find him with an extra piece of rubber neck when the mice are turned loose.

We was called to the Governor's chair when only 31 years old, when the state was in a chaotic condition the Legislative and Court of Appeals were run out of the city of Frankfort by armed soldiers when the state was nearly two million dollars in debt, and disorder and demoralization upon all sides, and yet at this inexperienced age, he brought peace and tranquility out of chaos, put the states finances upon a sound and economical basis, enlarged the appropriations to the eleemosynary institutions of the state, greatly augmented the Common School fund, regenerated the prison system and put them upon a paying and self sustaining basis, built your magnificent state Capitol building costing $2,000,000 without any suspicion or charge of graft, left the state treasury with over $1,000,000 in it, and all this was done by his splendid management and executive ability, without raising your tax rate; put the County Unit plank in the democratic platform, and made it possible to be put upon your statute books, did not reprimand or become disgruntled in defeat, but put his shoulder to the wheel and helped to roll up the democratic majority and victory in 1911, and had he been your representative in Congress when the Kenyon bill was voted upon, he would not have deserted his post for the doubtful shadow of the saloon keeper's wing, nor hidden behind the flimsy and puerile pretext of unconstitutionality.

We sadly need such a man in the Senate to help carry out the pledges to the people in the National Democratic platform and sustain President-elect Wilson in his effort to redeem these pledges.

I cast my first vote for him in 1898 and have always been his zealous supporter, I have been for him up hill and down dale, and have never yet failed to find him honest, courageous, progressive and always working for the best interest of his party and "the common people." Very recently upon the streets of Lancaster he with James and others of the Kentucky delegation at the Baltimore Convention with that matchless and grand statesman, William Jennings Bryan, were denounced and vilified as wreckers and demagogues of the democratic party, and it was advocated to unmercifully kick them out of the Baltimore convention, and yet by following the leadership of Bryan, the nomination of that Christian statesman, Woodrow Wilson, for the presidency was made possible, and this was accomplished only by these men over ruling the power and control of the trusts and big interests that were dominating that convention, and by their actions made the election of Woodrow Wilson a certainty.

My observation has taught me that certain sporadic and spasmodic changes of mind and sentiment in order to be on the popular side of men or measures are like death bed regenerations, of unstable quality and doubtful and suspicious character, one is the art of the trickster and demagogue in politics, the other of the dissembler and hypocrite in religion. In my conception of right and wrong there is no distinction between personal and political integrity; a man who would violate a sacred political agreement, can scarcely be trusted, and I submit to you is likely to betray a political promise or dishonor a business obligation. If you do not

J. R. MOUNT.

To The Democratic Voters Of Garrard County.

Believing in a Republican form of government in which the humblest and the poorest citizen may equally contend with the rich and favored for political office, and believing in the democratic doctrine of rotation in office and knowing that a generous public often rewards an efficient tried and true democratic worker with preferment, I announced myself as a candidate to represent Garrard County in the Kentucky Legislature, subject to a democratic primary to be held in August (1913). Believing that when a man asks of the people the office of representative, or any other office, that the people have the right to a free and candid expression of his views upon public questions and especially upon those questions that directly affect them, and believing that Governor Beckham was robbed of the office of United States Senator by four political renegades, and that he has always been true to his convictions and the interest of the great common people of our State, and that he is admirably qualified for this office, I will say to the voters of this county that I prefer him to any man in Kentucky for this office.

He was called to the Governor's chair when only 31 years old, when the state was in a chaotic condition the Legislative and Court of Appeals were run out of the city of Frankfort by armed soldiers when the state was nearly two million dollars in debt, and disorder and demoralization upon all sides, and yet at this inexperienced age, he brought peace and tranquility out of chaos, put the states finances upon a sound and economical basis, enlarged the appropriations to the eleemosynary institutions of the state, greatly augmented the Common School fund, regenerated the prison system and put them upon a paying and self sustaining basis, built your magnificent state Capitol building costing $2,000,000 without any suspicion or charge of graft, left the state treasury with over $1,000,000 in it, and all this was done by his splendid management and executive ability, without raising your tax rate; put the County Unit plank in the democratic platform, and made it possible to be put upon your statute books, did not reprimand or become disgruntled in defeat, but put his shoulder to the wheel and helped to roll up the democratic majority and victory in 1911, and had he been your representative in Congress when the Kenyon bill was voted upon, he would not have deserted his post for the doubtful shadow of the saloon keeper's wing, nor hidden behind the flimsy and puerile pretext of unconstitutionality.

In my conception of right and wrong there is no distinction between personal and political integrity; a man who would violate a sacred political agreement, can scarcely be trusted, and I submit to you is likely to betray a political promise or dishonor a business obligation. If you do not want the treachery, such as was exemplified by the four political crooks that knifed Governor Beckham four years ago, to be repeated, put none but true and tried Beckham men on guard.

I have been voting the Democratic ticket for 40 years without faltering and should you commission me to vote for another than Gov. Beckham I will do so for I believe it is the paramount duty of a representative to respect the will of his constituents rather than his own particular views.

If nominated and elected I pledge you that whatever energy or capacity I may possess will always be enlisted in making the burdens of the people lighter and not heavier by voting for large appropriation and no money in sight to pay them. I pledge you to vote for no bill or bills creating a lot of offices not provided for in the constitution; to vote for and not sidetrack a bill granting each and every voter the right to express his choice in a primary election for presidential candidates; to vote for a bill making the corporations of the state pay their just proportion of the state taxes. If you want a bill voted for that makes large and indiscriminate appropriations and that will enlarge the indebtedness of the state now amounting to over two and a half millions of dollars, do not send me for I will not vote for it. If you want more public offices created that are not needed and are simply created for the benefit of some political parasite and for which the constitution make no provision, do not send me for I will not vote for them. If you want a man to go to Frankfort and fritter away his time and be simply an ornament or servant of the special interest, do not send me for I'll not do it. If you want your state taxes lowered and the state finances put upon a sound basis send me and I'll try to do it. I will later on in the canvass tell you how I propose to help to do it. My creed is Beckham for Senator, a more equal distribution of taxation, less offices and a lower tax rate.

Respectfully,
J. R. Mount.

Telephone Reports In The State.

The Independent company and the Cumberland are consolidated in Franklin County.

A merger of all telephone companies in Woodford county is reported with increased rates and free service with Lexington cut out.

Independent Telephone Companies and the Cumberland Company consolidate in Nicholasville and Jessamine County, and the rates are raised.

The Fayette Home Telephone company and the Cumberland company are consolidated in Lexington. Rates are raised and the patrons are dissatisfied.

The two independent companies in Christian county are taken over by the Cumberland company and the rates are raised immediately upon the merger of the companies. The patrons of the companies are protesting.

The Fiscal court of Christian county has revoked the grant heretofore given the Telephone companies to use the public highways for the use of poles and the Court will sell a franchise which will regulate the rates to be charged both in the local and long distance business. This is the first county in the state to sell a county franchise.

Suit has been filed in the name of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and several citizens by the County Attorney in the Fayette Circuit Court seeking the dissolution of the merged companies. The suit alleges that the Cumberland company or the trust has absorbed the Home company and not as reported that the Home Company has absorbed the trust.

A mass meeting of the citizens of Lexington and Fayette county was held at the Court House in Lexington Monday. Speeches were made protesting against the consolidation and resolutions were adopted asking the Governor, Attorney General, and the U. S. District Attorney and Attorney General of the U. S. to assist in the dissolution of the trust.

LOST: A bunch of Keys between the home of Bris Bruce in Middletown and the public square. Kindly return to Record office.

Please Give Us Credit.

We notice that several lengthy articles which originated with the Record have been going the round of the press of late under a Louisville date line, making it appear as press dispatch to the daily papers, or else without being credited to any paper. We are not vain, but we believe in "rendering unto Caesar the thing that is Caesar's," and if our feeble efforts are worth crediting, they are surely worth crediting, and newspaper ethics demand that this should be done.

Mr. W. S. Ferguson's Brother Dead.

Friends of Mr. W. S. Ferguson in Lancaster received word from him last Friday that he had been called to Melbourn Fla. by the death of his brother Mr. John Ferguson which occurred in that city. Mr. Ferguson was accompanied to Florida by his mother, who resides in Covington. The deceased was the youngest of the Ferguson family; he conducted the Carlton Hotel, the leading hotel in Melbourn. He is survived by a wife and two children, his mother and two brothers, Messrs W. S. and Charles Ferguson of Covington.

The recent wise though drastic instructions given by Judge Charles A. Hardin to the grand juries in the various counties of his district are already becoming prolific of results. A report from Harrodsburg tells of the indictment of the jailer and poor house keeper, with the recommendation that they be removed from office, the indictment of pool room keepers for permitting minors to play in their places, and the indictment of merchants for selling cigarettes to minors.

Judge Hardin's theory of going after the lesser evils and thereby obviating the greater ones, of removing the environments and throwing about the youth better influences, is indeed a good one, and we are glad to see that the citizens, the men who compose the juries are inclined to assist him in the carrying out of his theory, and we sincerely hope that his home county of Mercer has set an example that will be followed in other counties of the district, where doubtless at least some of the evils exist.

If the officers in the various counties who assist at the courts, and the citizens of the counties will hold up the Judge's hands in this most laudable determination to rid the district of these minor offenders, or cause them to desist in their offenses against the law, we will before the passing of many courts see the cleanest judicial district, the district where there is less crime than in any district in Kentucky. The question of whether we shall have an increase or decrease of crime in Kentucky after all lies with the people themselves, the question of the punishment of offenders comes before the juries, and the people compose the juries. Will you mete out such punishment to them as will deter them from further infringement of the laws, or will you by leniency in the matter of fines and imprisonment or verdicts of "not guilty" offers encouragement for other offenses. It is with you.

When Lincoln with his far seeing eye spoke at Gettysburg and prayed that there might be preserved for us "a Government of the people, by the people and for the people", he meant a Government under the well-regulated system established by the constitution of the United States at that time and before any of these new fangled amendments had been heard of. There are proposed amendments to the Constitution without number, and also efforts to undermine and get behind the Constitution, and to brush aside the safe-guards which it contains.

In celebrating Lincoln's birthday nothing could be more fitting than talks on good government. Children should be taught good government, first in the home, the school and the town, which will make of him later a good citizen in the state. If children are taught to obey and order and the power of authority and that authority should be placed in the hands of such people as we are willing to obey; then truly shall we have a government "of the people by the people and for the people".

Poor old Mexico is in the throes of another uprising and considerable blood has been shed. The insurgents are being led by a nephew of Ex-President Diaz, he being released by them from prison where he was under a death sentence. The place was assaulted and President Madero was compelled to seek temporary shelter elsewhere, however Madero, claims to be able to cope with the situation, but it looks very much to an outsider as if the elder Diaz, the "Iron Man" would be recalled and would again rule Mexico.

With the Balkan situation becoming more and more complicated every day, and threatening to involve many other European powers in the embroil, an uprising in Nicaragua and the usual number of South American uprisings in progress, it looks very much as if the Biblical prediction of "wars and rumors of wars" was being fulfilled.

The medical press of this country as well as the medical fraternity, are loth to accept as true the statement of Dr. Frederick Franz Friedman of Germany that he has discovered a cure for tuberculosis, and are waiting to be shown. All manner of reports are being spread through the medium of the press, one of which is that an American has returned from Germany with sufficient of the virus for one patient, which he will administer to his wife who is a sufferer from the malady.

Meanwhile the American people are earnestly hoping that Dr. Friedman's alleged discovery may prove a success and that the time is not far distant when he will either send or bring it to this country in order that the many thousands of sufferers from the White Plague may benefit by his discovery.

Senators and Representatives who have been in conference with President-elect Wilson, and who claim to speak with authority, have imparted to their colleagues the information that he does not contemplate removing from office until their time expires, republicans, except for cause, such as dishonesty and like offenses, and that his resolution along that line will apply to the Postmaster and Collector of the Port at Louisville. The authenticity of this report is exceedingly doubtful, as the President-elect has thus far been exceedingly sparing with suggestions as to what he would do along other lines, and it is hardly probable that he would vouchsafe any information in this respect.

City government, in the long run, under whatever form it takes, will be just as good, and no better, than the people who take an interest in public affairs want to make it. It is a monstrous delusion that you can secure good government by creating a triumvirate, giving them absolute authority.

A city government for the people, and by the people is what we want. Public servants who do not regard public service as a private snap. We want men both capable and conscientious. It may seem a rare combination, but there are such men.

If you should visit Miami Fla., just now you would see Williams Jennings Bryan leading the simple life working in his vegetable garden like any other farmer. Some think he is raising potatoes for his friend Woodrow, in order that he may have enough cold ones to go around. The President-elect will doubtless be considered one of Uncle Sam's most valued recruits.

Prominent Garrard Farmer.

Mr. John M. Duncan, of Lancaster, was here Wednesday, having brought his crop of tobacco to the Danville market. Mr. Duncan is one of the most widely-known and highly respected citizens of Garrard county, having served as county clerk and been long identified with everything for the betterment and uplift of his community.

We never knew a more pure-minded, Christian gentleman. While in Danville he spent much time with Messrs. W. C. Price, Ed. Hopper and Leslie McMurry talking over their good times in Garrard—well, we will not say how many years ago.—Danville Messenger.

Need An Opera House.

The production of the "Western Girl" at the opera house recently filled that structure to its utmost capacity, in fact Mr. Romans was compelled to turn many away for want of room. This demonstrates clearly the urgent need of some kind of a play room. This organization among old ladies who make up the audience.

In the National Congress a recommendation has been made to the committee on National Banks and Banking that in future National banks be allowed to loan money on real estate.

The tonsorial artists of Frankfort have increased the price of a shave to 15 cents. Frankfort always was noted for her shaves.

Preaching At Baptist Church.

Rev. Sam P. Martin of Lebanon Tenn preached at the Baptist church on Wednesday night, and the congregation of that church have under consideration the calling of Rev. Martin to their pulpit to succeed Bro. Bush who goes to Columbia.

Mr. E. S. Arnold Seriously Ill.

News comes from Danville of the serious illness of Mr. E. S. Arnold and his recovery is exceedingly doubtful. Mr. Arnold is a brother of Mrs. Eliza Hill and was born and reared in Garrard county, and is known to a wide circle of friends as "Sinc" Arnold.

Sutton-Lawson.

Mr. Stephen Sutton, son of Mr. J. B. Sutton a well known farmer and stock trader, was quietly married to Miss Marietta Lawson, daughter of Mr. Mose Lawson last week. Both parties live in the Drake Creek section of Garrard County and are very popular. The Record and the many friends of this young couple wish them much happiness.

Agents Wanted.

Agents wanted to take subscriptions for the Atlanta, Ga. Tri-Weekly Constitution. Valuable premiums for subscribers, liberal commissions and cash prizes for agents. You can make money fast in any small town or along any Rural Route. Some agents make a good living. Others make $15.00 or $20.00 a month on the side, soliciting subscriptions. Address for particulars: Tri-Weekly Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. 2-14-44

Mr. Wiley Making Improvements.

Mr. Tobe Wiley who purchased the Bastin property on Lexington Avenue, has a force of workmen engaged in modernizing the house. New hardwood floors, improved heating plant, bath rooms and plumbing are included in the work being done, and when completed Mr. Wiley will have one of the most modern and up-to-date homes in the city.

Sammy Herron Enlists.

Samuel Lee Herron the eldest son of Chief of Police and Mrs. Luther B. Herron, last week celebrated the arrival of his majority by going to Columbus O. and enlisting in a company of U. S. Coast Artillery, taking a seven year "hitch". Sam is a good boy and by the time he serves his enlistment will doubtless be considered one of Uncle Sam's most valued recruits.

Resurrect The Commercial Club.

Town growth is a science and there are recognized ways to promote it. A committee of active men representing an organization should work at it, all the time. They should get definite facts as to how gains were made by towns that we know have grown, and see if these same methods won't work here.

Fish And Game Club For Garrard County

A Necessity.

It has been observed that the counties which organized Fish and Game clubs have reaped the most benefit under the recently enacted Fish and Game law.

Garrard county which is traversed diametrically by the best fish stream in Kentucky, has no such club, and in consequence, unless something is done along that line before the coming of spring, this county will become a Mecca for seiners and others who have been accustomed to take fish illegally, and will feel much more secure in the pursuit of their nefarious practices because of the non-existence of such a body in the county.

Votes For Kentucky Women Active Campaign For Constitutional Amendment

Now On Headquarters Open in Lexington And Field Organizer Engaged.

The Ingratitude Of Man.

A campaign is on to obtain the full suffrage for women in Kentucky. A bill will be presented in the next legislature authorizing the submission of a constitutional amendment to the people at the election of November, 1916.

Mrs. Dessa Breckinridge, of Lexington, is the new president of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association.

Mr. Urey Estes, formerly with the University Press of Chicago, has arrived to take up the work of organizing the sympathizers with women suffrage, and active work over the State will begin at once.

This organization will enlarge his present house, or that either he or some one else will build a larger house here.

A moving picture show is all right, but it has been clearly demonstrated that the people desire something better occasionally, and we should have a structure that would accommodate the better class of theatrical troupes occasionally.

Any local legal or any individuals wanting Mr. Estes services, or other help from headquarters, may apply to the address mentioned above.

Noted Anniversaries In February.

Fifty years ago the United States was engaged in a bloody struggle that stands as one of the leading events in the history of our country. This fact adds a special significance to the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln this month.

The anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the poet Longfellow and St. Valentine day are three other occasions that will also generally be observed this month.

Now how many know that Joel T.

Hart, whom Kentucky and especially

Clark county delights to honor, was born four miles east of Winchester,

Feb. 11th, 1810, which makes it 103

years ago while Lincoln was born 104 years ago.

Hart, by trade, was a stone mason and built many substantial chimneys in Clark and Bourbon counties.

His first work of art was a bust of Gen. Cassius M. Clay.

He went abroad in 1849 studying anatomy and other art essentials.

While abroad he completed busts of Andrew Jackson and

Alexander Campbell and also the statue of Henry Clay which now stands in Louisville.

His masterpiece was the "Woman

Triumphant" which, after his death was sold to Tiffany, and later was sold to The Hart Memorial Association of Kentucky, this association placed it in the rotunda of the Court House at Lexington where it was destroyed by fire.

No Wedding Bells For Us.

Dan Cupid is said to get in his most deadly work this week but we will have to ask him to pass us by as there are no hearts hung on the outside of the Record office door for him to shoot at. True, our three young ladies, Misses Stella and Grace Comely and Miss Mary Reid are just the kind he is looking for, good looking, bright and energetic, but the Record needs them so badly, if Cupid comes in the door after one of them he will go out by the window.

Surely, Cupid remembers Lenny for he got in his work on some several years ago and hit him so hard he was led to the hymenial alter, like some of the rest of us, he now stands without hitching, is a thoroughly domesticated animal, the kind that Cupid never bothers but once. True, Terry is not married but he is invulnerable, unless hit the heel, and he steps so lively we think Cupid would be wasting both time and darts to shoot at him.

The City Editor has had such a deep wound another shot would kill him. He really needs a professional nurse, no amateur need apply.

We had intended to offer our promising young devil on Cupids alter as a sacrifice from the Record office, but when he came in with a valentine he had written saying he "had given his heart to Grace" we knew it was all over with us and it was then we decided to hang out our card "No Wedding Bells For Us" in order that Cupid would waste no time on us, as there is so much work for him to do elsewhere.

First, we would direct him to the Garrard Bank and Trust Co., there is a modern man or two in there and they would like to negotiate with him before being shot at. He might stop in at Batson's and use another dart or two effectively. Currey's store holds one in the person of Johnnie almost as invulnerable as Terry, but he still has a soft place over his heart. Smith the up-to-date clothing man, is also up-to-date in this business and if Cupid offers him any one, she will have to be neat as a pin, pretty as a pink the achme of perfection. We will have to ask Cupid to pass over Hurt & Anderson, they are too deeply wounded to need further treatment, in fact they too, are at the stage where they stand without hitching and a lady can drive them as well as a man, even better.

H. T. Logan's has always been a sort of matrimonial bureau, where love letters are written and love affairs are argued before Judge Tinker Anderson and many a young man has known where his next meal was coming from through his kindly advice, for he always says to them, "don't do as I did, but as I say." He has started the ball rolling in this store several times, but it has stopped before it hit Simon, however Judge Tinker says he hopes to get him off this Spring, that he has ordered some flowers for Easter, which is always a hopeful sign.

We hardly know how to advise Cupid about going into Davidson and Doty's or into the Citizens Bank, Alex and Joe seem to be in about the same fix as the firm of Hurt & Anderson, though he had better talk with Judge Anderson before passing them by.

We advise him to open Billy Ball's door very gently and give Charlie Zanone the same treatment he gave Billy, that is, slip up on him unaware, shoot him down and then put in one more dart for good count. He will have to have special arrows made for H. B. Northcott, as all of them hereto-fore have failed to penetrate at all, or else broken off before they reached his charm.

No wonder there are so many weddings during the winter season they are the orthodox confessions of spring courtships and summer betrothals, that could no longer resist the fireside charm.

Willie's Valentine,

"Teach me, I've got a hart,
But teacher's off her base
Once on a time I had a bart,
But now its owned by Grace".

The Modern Man's Valentine.

Let other songsters sing of girls with lips like rubies;
Let others prate of golden curls and damsel wonderous fair;
Let others make themselves all hoarse as they beauty sing;
I fail to see where such a course will bring in anything.
I do not dream of laughing eyes the kind described in books;
I do not care to waste my time on any "girle's looks
Man needs more money her below, for pecks of it I pine.
Now, won't some damsel with the dough be my Valentine?

A Hint To Saint Valentine.

Dear old saint our fathers worshiped,
Whom we disregard of late,
You forget that times are changing,
Bows and arrows out of date.

You are out of date, Dan Cupid,
Traveling around on the wing,
Why not get yourself a bicycle,
Motorcycle, or some such thing?

Why not get a touring car,
Run-a-bout or Auto-bus?

With these later day improvements,
You could make just twice the fuss.

Is it that our hearts are smaller,
That he misses off his fling?

No, in these days of fast traveling,
He has to catch us "on the wing".

The Time The Place And The Girl.

(The Records Valentine)

To the girl that neglected leap year, to the young man that neglected the summer girl, we would say, avail yourself of this sweet beautiful valentine month. The most beautiful time of courtship is the winter time of snows and storms. It reveals to the enchanted pair a fire light conception of love and domesticity. It makes the contrast complete between them and the cold outside. It fills the heart of the women with cozy hopes for the future and reconciles the wild creature, man, to a nuptial bondage that deprives him of many bachelor liberties. The summer girl may have been hard to withstand, but nevertheless she seemed a sort of illusion, but this queen woman of the heart is real. She is irresistible, not because she is beautiful or brilliant, but because seems to belong, not to the cold world outside, but to him. And the maid who had no more heart than a driad during the summer flirtation is no longer a vacation ballad, but a woman enchanting and sweet to him through love.

No wonder there are so many wedd

Valentines Day.

The celebration of Valentines Day on the 14th day of February originated with the Romans and is intended to be in commemoration of the feast of St. Valentine, who was a patron saint of the ancient Romans. The custom as originally observed by the Romans consisted in sending pictorial missives which were termed "valentines".

There has however been considerable deterioration from the pretty original custom, and in modern times the day is observed, especially by the young, in the sending of caricatures and comic pictures intended to portray the recipient in a very unpleasant light, and in many cases the unfair advantage is taken to convey to some person your opinion of them by a means which very much resembles that most despicable of all persons, the anonymous letter writer.

The custom as originally observed, and which is indulged in to some extent as yet, is a very pretty one; the senders chose beautiful cards containing appropriate verses of poetry intended to gladden the heart of some loved friend, but we are very sorry to say that the sending of the comic and more objectionable class of valentines very much predominates. The latter custom is very much indulged in by children, who do not stop to think, or else are not cognizant of the gravity of the act they are performing, but their elders we are sorry to say, are somewhat given to expressing their opinions of other people by means of the comic valentine.

Before we do this let us stop to think that perhaps the recipient may be grieved by its receipt, that we are doing them an injustice, and that we ourselves would not care to receive such a missive, and refrain from ruthlessly and unnecessarily injuring their feelings.

There are any number of pretty card valentines to be obtained for the same price, substitute one of the latter for the nonsensical comic which you had intended sending.

You would not stoop to the underhand method of sending an anonymous letter to inform someone of their shortcomings, a comic valentine is just about the equivalent of an anonymous letter, therefore do not send it.

Cupid Has Inspired Lancaster Boys

"From The Fullness Of The Heart The Month Speaketh".

Doo Gill's first effort at Valentine writing.

The girl for me must have false hair.
And freckles on her face.
I do not want a "baby stare".

Of beauty not a trace.

I want a girl that's awful fat.

As homely as can be.

If she's as ugly as can be.

Then she might love only me.

The Valentine written below by H. Clay Kauffman shows a deeper insight into love affairs than does D. Gill's, it also shows literary skill and the type of mind to write a valentine with a true lovers art. He shows himself to be both a student and follower of Burns.

Like A Red Red Rose.

My love is like a red, red rose,
That's newly sprung in June;

My love is like the melody

That's sweetly played in tune.

As fair thou art, my bonnie lass,

So deep in love am I,

And still will love thee, my dear,

Till all the seas gang dry.

Till all the seas gang dry, my dear,

And rocks melt by the sun;

And I will love thee still, dear,

While the sands of life shall run.

Now fare thee weel, my only love,

Now fare thee weel a while,

And I will come again, my love,

Tho' it were ten thousand mile.

Your true love is never bothered for a rhyme.

Billy Burton in writing his valentine was puzzled for a moment about a word to rhyme with nightingale, but he got out of it thus;

My love is a chrysanthemum

And I am like the nightingale.

I sing her verses all the night,

Unmindful of the biting gale.

We are by the boys in town, just as we are by the candidates, we will show no partiality and will print their poems as well as their wants and wishes, from time to time. We were so crowded for space, this issue we had to omit beautiful stanzas by T. K. Watson, also some "real heart throbs" by Messrs Harry Anderson, Frazier, Hurt, Joe Walker, Harry Thomlinson and Louis Tinder, but they will appear later.

Two Valentines For H. C. Bailey.

Saint Valentine was overly generous with the home of H. C. Bailey. He left two bouncing boys there that have been named William and James. We can not help but feel that a mistake was made and that one was intended for elsewhere, but as long as the mother, who was Miss Mary Moss, is so pleased and the proud father is just "ticked to death" with getting in so much "steady help", we will not be so unkind as to tell Saint Valentine the mistake his delivery boy, the Stork, made.

Conceited Man.

(HE)

Dan Cupid went to shoot one day. He flushed three hearts upon the way. One was so hard, his arrow broke

At every stroke;

One was so soft, no barbs so bold

Could in hold;

And one was fair, and sweet and sound

He quickly brought it to the ground.

Now, tell me truly, maiden mine,

Which heart was thine,

My Valentine?

Deceitful Maid.

(She)

Conceited man! None of the three

You tell of was the heart in me.

The soft, the hard, nor yet the sound.

You boast you brought to ground.

At other hearts yet

A Valentine Frame For His Latest Flame

CUPID'S SPECIAL AGENT

A Story For St. Valentine's Day.

By ADDISON HOWARD GIBSON.
[Copyright, 1913, by American Press Association.]

IT was the morning of St. Valentine's day, with the joyous brightness which makes the February days in southern California a realized dream of delight. The winter rains and sunshine had coaxed the flowers in the Avery garden into early bloom. Dan Avery noted this as he sat smoking in the open alcove and gazed moodily at the great purple violets and the shy lily of the valley in the ample beds of his brother's beautiful dower garden. He remembered bitterly they were the favorites of the girl with whom he had quarreled after the ball at Mrs. Holden's reception.

"Uncle Dan, don't you know something about hearts?"

Dan Avery turned and looked into the troubled face of his small nephew and namesake.

"Hearts!" he repeated, with a bitter smile. "What do you want to know about hearts, old man?"

Dan junior, about six years old, brushed coaxingly against big Dan's leg as he displayed a pair of scissors in one hand and a large three-cornered piece of pink paper in the other.

"I'm trying to cut out a heart," he explained, pushing the paper toward his uncle. "It's Valentine's day, and I want to make a heart for Cynthia and take it over to her house."

"Why don't you buy one for her instead of haggling one out of paper?" asked his uncle.

"Cynthia likes things her friends make for her best," informed Dan junior. "That's why I'm making this valentine for her. Yesterday I was very angry with Cynthia, and I didn't mean to send her a valentine. But I'm not cross at her today, and I want to fix up a heart with some pictures I've got and take it over to her house."

"Cynthia?" mused the young man. "Is she Miss Marvin's little niece?"

"Yes, Cynthia's parents are dead, and she lives with her grandmas and her auntie—our auntie," Dan junior explained.

"Our auntie?" quoted Uncle Dan, with a peculiar light in his brown eyes. "Does Miss Marvin object to your calling her auntie?"

"No; she likes me, Cynthia's auntie does. She says so."

"Does she? I wish she'd like me," sighed the young man bitterly.

"Maybe she would if you'd ask her. But big fellows like you don't need aunties," he opposed.

"Don't we? What do we need, then, old man?" pinching the cheek of Dan junior.

"You need to get an auntie for me, not an auntie for you," laughed Dan junior, resting his elbows on Uncle Dan's knees and watching the reshaping of the paper heart.

"Will you help me, Dan junior?"

"Sure thing, I'll help you. I'll ask Cynthia's auntie," said the little fellow seriously. "Maybe she—"

"What made you fall out with Cynthia?" asked Uncle Dan, carefully trimming the heart in his hand.

"Oh, she let Clyde sit by her in Sunday school last Sunday. Then she let him walk home with her and carry her red parasol. Clyde's that boy with cors. I don't like to see a boy wear cors, do you, Uncle Dan? It makes 'em too girls."

"Right you are, Dan junior," laughed his uncle.

"It made me very angry to have Cynthia get so thick with Clyde, but I'm over it today, and I'm going to make up."

"And this paper heart is to be a peace offering," observed Uncle Dan as, having finished, he watched Dan junior inspect his work critically. Then he printed very carefully round the edge: "I love you. Be my valentine. Let's be friends again."

"I'd like to be friends with some one again," remarked Uncle Dan as his hopeful namesake laboriously finished the printing.

"Did some little girl forget you same as Cynthia did me?" persisted the interrogator.

Uncle Dan nodded his head gloomily. Dan junior drew nearer in sympathy.

"Has she soft yellow hair like Cynthia's?" he inquired.

"Yes," answered his uncle.

"More beautiful, old man."

"Does she divide her candy kisses with you?"

"No."

"Cynthia always does!" he announced, with an air of triumph. "Does she kiss you when you make up?"

"She won't let me kiss her," confessed Uncle Dan.

"Don't she love you, Uncle Dan?"

"I wish I knew, kiddo."

"Then why don't you send her a valentine and find out?"

"Thank you just the same, old man, but I don't believe I'll venture that far," returned Uncle Dan. "My little girl loves flowers. What do you think of flowers for a valentine?"

Dan junior regarded the pink paper heart in his hand very lovingly; then

"That's a secret," whispered Uncle Dan mysteriously. "You shall learn presently."

Uncle Dan turned up the street with him and walked directly to Cynthia's door.

"Are you going to wait for me?" asked Dan junior.

"Certainly. I can't go without my agent, can I?" appealed Uncle Dan.

Dan junior smiled at this display of good comradeship on the part of his young uncle. Then he pressed the electric button on the door, peering anxiously through the glass. Presently the door was opened by a beautiful young woman with eyes just the color of the violets in the box in Uncle Dan's hand.

Miss Edna Marvin's cheeks flushed softly when she met the eyes of the larger caller.

"I've brought this to Cynthia," announced Dan junior, holding up the envelope. "Uncle Dan came along, because it's Valentine's day, and I'm his special agent."

"Oh, I see!" laughed Miss Marvin, recovering from her surprise. "Come in," she invited them.

"Thank you," said Uncle Dan in a strange voice, that made Dan junior stare at him as Miss Marvin ushered them into the sunny parlor.

"Have seats," said Cynthia's auntie.

"Mamma and Cynthia have gone over to the postoffice, but they will be back in a few minutes."

Dan junior looked disappointed; but, seeing Uncle Dan place the box of flowers on the piano stool, he said:

"You ought to see the valentine that Uncle Dan has in that box for his little girl."

"Indeed! I should like to see it!" smiled Miss Marvin.

"You won't care if I show Auntie

he looked from the alcove into the garden where the bright February sunshine was opening many a bud on plant and vine.

"I see," said Uncle Dan. "Personally you prefer the heart. But if you'll help me we'll gather some violets and lilacs of the valley are my favorites," she answered, resting a burning check against his hair.

"That's what Uncle Dan said about his little girl when we picked the flowers. Auntie Edna, I wish you were Uncle Dan's little girl; then you could be my real, truly auntie. Why, how red your face is!"

"You're a very, very foolish little boy," she said, putting one finger half playfully over his red lips.

"Well, I do wish it," he insisted, pulling the finger away and holding it in his chubby hand. "I wonder who Uncle Dan's little girl is?" he mused, turning the card pinned to the bouquet so he could read the name. "Miss Edna Marvin, with sincere regards," he read.

Then he looked very long at his Uncle Dan and back again into the lovely fushed face behind its screen of ferns and violets.

"WISH YOU WERE UNCLE DAN'S LITTLE GIRL."

"Why," he cried joyously, "you are Uncle Dan's little girl, and he never told me!" Then he pulled his uncle over to Miss Marvin's side and put their hands together.

"Now you can kiss and make up, just like Cynthia and I will," he advised. "That's what we have Valentine's day for," he added wisely. "Oh, there's Cynthia now! I hear her in the yard. I must run and surprise her. She didn't expect I'd bring her a valentine. You don't need me for your special agent any more, do you, Uncle Dan?"

"No, I don't need you any longer, old man. Run away and find Cynthia," he directed as one arm stolidly unresistantly about the slender figure of Edna Marvin.

Our Water Tower.

How tall was Alexander, pa,
That people called him great?
Was he as tall as our water tower?
And what about his weight?
Was he so tall that he could stand,
Like the water tower high?
And while his feet were on the ground,
His hands could touch the sky?

What about his capacity, pa,
How much could he hold?
Could he drink all the filter filters,
Did he know when he was sold?

Quit Kickin' The Park Dogs Around.

Oh, don't you remember our park, Ben Bolt
With houn' dogs whose hair was near-brown.
They whined with delight when the fox horn blew
But trembled with fear at the women's frown?
In terror the houn' dog has flown Ben Bolt
To a corner obscure and alone
Now they have made it a park beautiful to see
And with much pride it is shown.

Beautiful Women Of The 400 Who Have Luxuriant Hair

At any rate the Giroux Mfg. Co., of Buffalo, N. Y., American manufacturers of PARISIAN Sage, give out through R. E. McRoberts & Son guarantee, the strongest ever given:

"We guarantee PARISIAN Sage to end dandruff in two weeks; to stop falling hair; to make dull, lifeless and colorless hair beautiful and luxuriant; to cure all itching diseases of the scalp, or money back."

One of our correspondents says a thief broke in and "stole two belles and a water cooler". We think the miscreant must have been a very classy specimen of the light fingered gentry. It is a burning question why he "swiped" a water cooler in dead of winter yet stranger still how he could succeed in stealing two belles when some of our bachelor friends in this locality could never be so successful as to steal one.

VERIFY IT

The Proof Is In Lancaster Almost at your Door.

The public statement of a Lancaster citizen is in itself strong proof for Lancaster people, but confirmation strengthens the evidence.

Here is a Lancaster citizen who testifies years ago that Doan's Kidney Pills relieved weak kidneys and now states the result was permanent. Can any sufferer from kidney pills ask better proof? You can investigate. The case is right at home.

George Wright, carpenter, Stanford, Lancaster, Ky., says: "I willingly confirm all that I said in 1908 praising Doan's Kidney Pills. They do all that is claimed for them. I suffered a great deal from my kidneys and back. Pains through my loins extended to the sides and over the kidneys. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and my kidneys became normal and the pains stopped."

At first the tendency of the manufacturers seemed to be toward large and expensive cars and the needs of the poor man or the man of moderate means was overlooked. American ingenuity and common sense supplied this need in "The Ford."

The Ford is not only an inexpensive car to buy but because of its strength and enduring qualities it is also inexpensive to maintain.

Doctors Use This for Eczema

Dr. Evans, Ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin diseases and the blood." The skin must be washed clean, and the sores must be washed out, and no salves have long ago been found worthless. The most advanced physicians of the day believe that the best salves are prescribing a wash of wintergreen, thymol and other ingredients for eczema, and all other skin diseases. This compound is known as D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema.

R. E. McRoberts & Son.

Dr. Holmes, the well known skin specialist writes: "I am convinced that the D.D.D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as any other. I have been prescribing the D.D.D. remedy for years." It will take away the itch the instant you apply it.

In fact, we are so sure of what D.D.D. will do for you that we will be glad to let you have a $1 bottle on our guarantee that it will cost you nothing unless you find that it does the work.

Lancaster Too.

The advocates of the temperance cause in Lancaster were not idle in the closing days just preceding the vote on the liquor bills pending in Congress. A Union service was held at the Christian church on last Sunday night, in which all the ministers of the city participated and a telegram was sent to Senators Bradley and Payne urging them to give their support to the measure which so vitally interests the good people of the Commonwealth.

On Monday afternoon the good women of the town, irrespective of denomination, gathered at the Christian church and held a prayer service for the success of the measure, and even while the Solons at Washington were earnestly debating the proposed measures, the prayers of the good women of Kentucky were being offered to Almighty God, that he might guide and direct the law makers and show them that it was to the best interests of those who were most vitally effected to vote for the passage of the measure.

Greatest Victory Ever Achieved By Prohibition Advocates Won In National Congress On Monday When The Webb Measure, A Substitute Identical With The Sheppard Kenyon Bill Was Passed Presidential Veto Is Feared.

The prayers of the good women of the country have been answered, the efforts of the good men have not been without avail. On last Monday night the Senate passed the Webb liquor measure by a viva voce vote. The Webb measure differs from the Sheppard-Kenyon measure only in the number of the bill, and was substituted for parliamentary reasons, and would prohibit the shipment of intoxicating liquors from one state to another when intended to be received or sold in violation of the law of the state to which the shipment is made. Friends of the measure will now seek to have the House concur in the action of the Senate, which if done will obviate the necessity of the measure being considered in conference, and it may go direct to the President for his signature.

Press dispatch say that a rumor is current in Washington that President Taft will veto the measure, and they doubt their ability to pass it over his veto. The President is said to agree with several of the Senators who opposed the measure in their belief that it is unconstitutional, and rather than have the responsibility shifted to the Supreme Court, will exercise his prerogative and veto the measure. Should he do this, there is a chance that the friends of the measure may be able to rally enough of their colleagues to their support to pass it over his veto.

Snake In Beehive.

Mr. David Duddar the well known east end farmer is also an enthusiastic apistar, and never fails even on the coldest days, to make a visit to his beehives and to look after the welfare of his extensive shed of honeybees. On one of the recent bright sunshiny days when he was making his accustomed rounds of his hives, he was very much surprised to see the head of a snake protruding from the orifice through which the bees are accustomed to enter and leave their dwelling. He uncovered the hive and removed the snake, which was of the "garter" species and about three feet in length. Mr. Duddar removed and dispatched the snake, which had done no damage further than to make severe inroads upon the winterstores of the bees, otherwise he had dwelt in his peculiar winter quarters in peace and harmony with the other occupants. It is supposed that when his snake-ship entered the beehive he was in thin order and that he gorged himself upon the honey until he was unable to come out through the aperture through which he entered. The fact that he was left undisturbed by the bees is accounted for by the knowledge that the cold weather renders them somewhat torpid, but with the advent of warmer weather they would doubtless have made the quarters extremely uncomfortable for the winter boarder. So great were the inroads upon the honey made by the snake that Mr. Duddar was compelled to replenish the larder of that particular hive.

Garrard County Boy Wins Honors.

The interesting debate mentioned in last weeks issue was held on Wednesday Feb. 5. The handsome Loving Cup was won by the Patterson Society. Garrard Co should be proud of the fact that one of her young men Mr. J. E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Wilson of Paint Lick, was a member of the team which captured this much prized trophy. Mr. Wilson was also selected as the alternate for the team which will represent State University in the Intercollegiate debate to be held in the latter part of April of this year. This is an honor which every young man in the University aspires to attain and his University career has reached its close.

Public Opinion And The Central Record.

There are three estates in Parliament; Clergy, Nobles and Commons—but in the Reporters Gallery yonder, sits a fourth estate more important than they all."

These words spoken by Burke, are as true today as they were when spoken. The power of the press is immeasurable. In every community, a government, a ring, or even a publication must, of necessity, control that powerful, subtle creature called Public Opinion. If the Record has not guided the public opinion of this community, it has obviously had some influence on the struggling thought. This influence, at least within recent times, has merely been used to throttle ills (already too well known to our readers) as they arrive. The trouble is that we are not trifling with perfectly simple and obvious vices; we have no crooked police to fight, gambling halls and segregations problems are unknown in Lancaster. We are fighting shadows and things in the air; there's the rub: we are dealing with Public Opinion.

The Record can not be expected, nor will it be tolerated, to paternally advise and control the fashions for instance, or the color of a woman's cheek. They usually do not need attention.

But because this paper is read in this community, because it can have some power on the thought of this community, it must find a theme; a harp to pick. The paper is run primarily to bring shekels into the coffers of the owners, but not entirely for that purpose. You do us a base calumny if you think so. It is the ambition of the whole force to make this paper serve the welfare of this community, and to be something more than an accumulation of facts and a money making position.

Big Demand For Tobacco Seed.

Many of the raisers of high class burley tobacco in Garrard county are accustomed to save seed from their crops, and in future much more will be saved than heretofore, as there is a great demand for it. Local growers are being besieged for seed and they cannot supply the demand, which shows the fame of Garrard county tobacco.

Blows Head Off With Dynamite. Horrible Death By Own Hand. Resident Of Southeastern Part Of County.

Edmund Parker who resided on the road leading from Dripping Springs to Cartersville in the extreme southeastern part of the county met death by his own hand a horrible manner on Tuesday morning. Parker arose from the breakfast table and went to the barn; the family were alarmed in a few minutes by a shot and upon going to the barn found Parker's body with the head completely torn from the body and scattered in atoms about the barn, and his left shoulder nearly blown off; an immense hole in the ground marked the scene of the tragedy, and from the surroundings it is supposed that Parker placed his head upon the ground and lighted a stick of dynamite and placed under his head. Mr. C. R. dynamite caps and fuse were found in his pocket.

Coroner Jones went to the scene of the tragedy Tuesday afternoon and rendered a verdict of death by his own hand from dynamite. Parker had been away from home working on a railroad, and had only returned a few days previous to his death. He attempted suicide three years ago when he resided in Indiana by cutting his throat. He is survived by a wife and five children.

No reason can be assigned for the rash deed, as Parker had been in good health and apparently good spirits. He was 47 years of age.
